

500,000 TONS OF COAL IN SIGHT FOR USE OF POOR

This Amount Is Additional to Supply of Local Dealers, Commissioner Day Says.

New York City will not face a coal shortage this winter if Commissioner of Markets Jonathan C. Day has his way. He will go to the Scranton section of Pennsylvania and sign contracts for hundreds of thousands of tons of anthracite within a few days. He has a definite offer of 300,000 tons, he says, and a tentative offer of two consignments of 200,000 tons each, to be used in case the 300,000 tons is not sufficient as a reserve supply for the city. L. A. Sneed represented the Federal Fuel Administration in the matter, while Commissioner Day was in close touch with Steve Schley, New York County Fuel Administrator.

Local coal dealers are wondering where Commissioner Day will store such an enormous quantity. Figuring on a basis of thirty-five cubic feet to one ton, they say it would require hundreds of city blocks to store that amount of coal. This plan, according to the Commissioner, will supplement the method of handling of the coal situation by the local dealers. It will eliminate the wholesalers' commissions, a matter of 20 per cent, to the advantage of the poor.

This coal will be sold at cost, plus the charge of handling by the city. Any one caught profiteering will be dealt with severely. The coal will be delivered on the basis of "free on board New York." Although not finally determined, the prices probably will be: Broken, $6.50; egg, $6.10; stove, $6.25; nut, $6.45, and pea, $4.90.

Steve Schley, County Fuel Administrator, said he was willing that the Commissioner should contract for the coal—if he could get it away from the mines.

The County Fuel Administration is required to keep tabs on all deliveries of 100 tons and over to office buildings, and of fifty tons and over to apartments and private dwellings. Permits to obtain coal from dealers can be secured at No. 65 Broadway. Scores of small landlords jammed the office of the Fuel Administrator today, eager to obtain their allowances.

BROKER DIES AT STATION.

Bulkeley R. Merwin Stricken Waiting for Train at Greenwiche.

GREENWICH, Conn., June 11.—Bulkeley R. Merwin, sixty-three years old, of 105th Street and Riverside Drive, a New York broker, dropped dead on the railroad platform here this morning when about to board a train for New York City. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Merwin had spent his summers here for thirty years. He is survived by his widow and one son.

BIG SEIZURE OF SECURITIES.

Sheriff Levies on Denver and Rio Grande for Judgment Creditors.

Sheriff David H. Knott will sell in the records of the County Court House at noon on June 20, 100,000 shares of capital stock of the Utah Fuel Company, par value $10,000,000, held by the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company, defendant, in the suit brought by the Equitable Trust Company, as trustee, on a judgment for $36,988,623, obtained against the railroad company on March 13, 1913. Attachments were issued against the property of the railroad company and notice was served on officers of five local banks, where the defendant is said to have accounts. Securities, etc., amounting to $10,418,700 were attached by Sheriff Knott's deputies.

CREEL ASKS $2,000,000.

Representatives Demand Board Be Responsible to Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An official status for the Committee on Public Information to make its expenditures subject to Congressional supervision was insisted on today by members of the House Appropriations Committee. George Creel, chairman, asked an appropriation of $2,000,000 to run the bureau for the next fiscal year. Heretofore the Creel Bureau has been supported through a $100,000,000 emergency fund which Congress gave to the President at the beginning of war, and for that reason the bureau has been an unofficial organization. A direct appropriation from Congress would make the chairman of the committee a public official.

BATHTUB NO USE TO I. W. W.

Witness in Chicago Trial Says None Tried Them.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Activities of the I. W. W. in the lumber camps of the Pacific Northwest were again under scrutiny at the I. W. W. trial today. J. M. Melville of Newport, Wash., was on the stand for the Government.

Attorney George Vanderveer, for the defense, tried to draw from him a picture of the hardships of the life in the lumber industry. "Did you, up to five years ago, ever see a bathtub in a bunk house?" asked Vanderveer. "No," replied the witness, "I didn't. They are putting them in now, but let me tell you something—I never saw one of your I. W. W. use one."

Eaches Urges Stabilizing of American Dollar Abroad.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Franklin Eaches of New York, a financial expert, told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today that immediate steps should be taken to stabilize the value of the American dollar abroad. "There is no real danger," he said, "for the dollar being at a discount in Spain."

that the giving of a better rate of interest to foreign banks would assist in maintaining the dollar's value.

STABBED AT A CELEBRATION.

Four "Pais" of Carrado Held When Body Is Discovered.
Pierdino Carrado of No. 61 Mott Street is dying in the Coney Island Hospital with a slash across his abdomen and stab wounds all over his body, and four men are held as accomplices in an attack on him. Carrado was one of fifty Italians who attended a banquet last night at No. 292 Stuyvesant Avenue, Coney Island. Early this morning a fight broke out and Carrado, after being stabbed, was thrown into a yard near door while the celebration went on. He was found hours later by a policeman. After a round-up of the banqueters the police locked up Giovanni D'Avino and Frank Nappo, owners of the restaurant where the fight took place. Vincenzo Celano of No. 221 East 25th Street and Andrew Cuomo of No. 21 President Street, Brooklyn.
